

Overcoming Dating Concerns

What people might say

How you might respond

Your solution

I don't know enough people.

"I understand. If I could show you how to meet new friends by having a fun demonstration, would you be interested?"

One fun thing that I have used with other hosts like you is this. You invite one friend and ask her to invite one. She asks that person to invite one friend. Each person fills in their info on the guest mailing list and we keep going until it is filled. Then I send reminders to everyone. That way not only you, but everyone gets to meet new friends.

I've been to so many parties lately.

"I understand. If I could show you how to make sure your friends learn new ideas and still have fun, would you be interested.

You know our new Taste of TW parties are a fun experience where Everyone learns new recipes and gets on hand experience with the products by using them right at the party.

My place is too small.

"I understand. If I could show you how to have a successful and fun get together that's perfect for small places, would you be interested?"

How many folks can you seat at your kitchen table. We could go a concentrated demo about Mod Mates. That way I could give full attention to each person's needs.

I don't have time. I'm just too busy.

"I understand. If I could show you how we can have a get together for you and your busy friends with a minimum of effort on your part, would you be interested?"

Once a month we hold a TW Bingo. You and your friends would be invited to come and play games of Bingo. You would all win prizes of TW. But you would also qualify for all of the host benefits.

My husband doesn't really like for me to have parties,

"I understand. If I could show you how we could plan a get together that would not inconvenience him or maybe even include him, would you be interested?"

With our new TOT parties, I find that lots of time couples really enjoy the night out together and it is amazing how much the guys contribute.